TYPE OF MUSIC

Cosmic Blues-Billy Grass

Referred to as "Cosmic Blues-Boogie Grass" and the "Rhythm Section of the River," Steel String Session is a globe-wandering group of musical multi-instrumentalists from what could likely be the most unknown place in the known world: the Ocoee River region of Ducktown, Tennessee. At this mountain crossroads of Appalachia-intrigue, three state lines and varied musical genres intersect. The musicians make the most out of what they refer to as regional "schyzo-graphy."

Steel String Session is intent on creating a stunningly dynamic acoustic sound that includes original music derived from the rich heritage of the Blue Ridge Mountains, Kentucky's bluegrass pastures, Gypsy alleys in Romania, as well as the Urban Streetscapes uncovered in clandestine warehouse districts.

Live on Stage: Steel String Session attacks all metes of the musical-appreciation scale with clever musical asides tucked in at the most unexpected moments. The musicians use mountain bred instinct to convince disparate audiences (traditionalists and newcomers) into believing they all arrived to a performance in the same vehicle whether it be a pickup truck or a Saab convertible.

Recorded Music: is currently heard on PBS Roadtrip Nation, is being used on NBC Sports, in popular outdoor adventure DVDs, major network sports broadcasts and used as attention getters in the annual television broadcast of the Le Tour de France.
